

Future: going to

CEFR A2

Lesson Pack · summary, worksheet & answer key

Quick answer

Use 'be going to' + base verb for the future when there's a plan or evidence. Use it for:

- 1 Plans and intentions — I'm going to study tonight.
- 2 Predictions from evidence — Look at those clouds, it's going to rain.

For instant decisions, promises and offers, use 'will' instead (I'll help you).
